🧠 Grammar

The Three German Articles: der, die, das

This was the main grammar focus of today's class. In German, every noun has a grammatical gender: masculine, feminine, or neuter. Each gender uses a different word for "the."

🔵 Masculine → der

Used for male persons, most day/month names, car brands, and certain endings.

der Mann (the man)
der Montag (Monday)
der Oktober (October)

🔴 Feminine → die

Used for female persons and nouns with specific endings (see rules below).

die Frau (the woman)
die Familie (the family)
die Freundschaft (friendship)

🟢 Neuter → das

Used for diminutives, metals, and verbs used as nouns.

das Kind (the child)
das Essen (eating/food)
das Gold (gold)

GRAMMAR RULES

🔑 Article Rules: How to Guess the Gender

Your teacher shared several word-ending rules that help you predict which article a noun takes. Memorise these — they will save you a lot of time!

Ending -keit / -heit / -igkeit → always die (feminine) die Geschwindigkeit (speed) · die Freiheit (freedom)

💡 Rule: Nouns ending in -keit, -heit, -igkeit are ALWAYS feminine.

Ending -schaft → always die (feminine)

die Freundschaft (friendship)

💡 Rule: Any noun ending in -schaft takes die.

Ending -ion / -tion / -sion → always die (feminine) die Diskussion (discussion) · die Nation (nation) · die Information

💡 Rule: Think of English words ending in "-tion" — they are feminine in German.

Ending -tät / -ät → always die (feminine) die Qualität (quality) · die Universität (university)

💡 Rule: Equivalent to English "-ty" words — always feminine.

Ending -tum → usually das (neuter)

das Eigentum (property) · das Reichtum (wealth — exception!)

💡 Note: There are a few exceptions, but most -tum nouns are neuter.

Ending -chen / -lein → always das (neuter)

das Kästchen (little box) · das Mädchen (girl)

💡 Rule: Diminutive endings -chen and -lein make a noun neuter — ALWAYS.

Ending -ling → usually der (masculine) der Schmetterling (butterfly) · der Frühling (spring)

💡 Rule: Most -ling endings are masculine.

Ending -ant / -ent → usually der (masculine) der Lieferant (supplier) · der Student (student) 💡 Rule: These refer to people (typically male role) — masculine.

🔑 More Article Rules

Day names & Month names → always der (masculine) der Montag (Monday) · der Sonntag (Sunday) · der Oktober (October) · der Januar (January) 💡 Rule: ALL days of the week and ALL months of the year are masculine in German. No exceptions!

Car brands & models → always der (masculine)

der Volkswagen · der Audi · der BMW
💡 Rule: This is because they all refer to der Wagen (the car), which is masculine.

Metals & materials → usually das (neuter)

das Gold (gold) · das Silber (silver) · das Eisen (iron) 💡 Rule: Names of metals and raw materials are generally neuter.

Verbs used as nouns → always das (neuter)

In German, you can turn any verb into a noun by capitalising it. These noun-verbs always take das.
lesen (to read) → das Lesen (reading) · essen (to eat) → das Essen (eating/food)
💡 This is how German creates many common nouns!

Seasons → always der (masculine) der Herbst (autumn) · der Sommer (summer) · der Winter (winter) · der Frühling (spring) 💡 Rule: All four seasons are masculine — just like months and days!

Male persons & roles → der; female versions add -in → die

der Nachbar (male neighbour) → die Nachbarin (female neighbour)
der Schüler (male pupil) → die Schülerin (female pupil) 💡 Adding -in to a masculine person-noun makes it feminine!

⚠️ Important: These are helpful guidelines, not absolute laws! There are always some exceptions. Your teacher specifically mentioned das Reichtum as an exception to the -tum rule. When in doubt, always check a dictionary and write the article together with every new noun you learn.

🔢 German Numbers in Maths

Today's class practised numbers through maths games. Here are the key maths words and how to use them in German sentences.

Plus Minus Mal

In German, maths is read exactly as you say it aloud: Zwei plus drei ist fünf. (Two plus three is five.) The word for "equals" or "is" in maths is simply ist.

Numbers 1–12

eins · zwei · drei · vier · fünf · sechs · sieben · acht · neun · zehn · elf · zwölf

Key Maths Words

plus (+) · minus (−) · mal (×) · ist / sind (= equals/is)

Tricky Numbers

elf = 11 (not "self"!) · zwölf = 12 · dreißig = 30 · einunddreißig = 31

GRAMMAR RULES

🔊 German Vowel Pronunciation

A key part of today's class was learning long vs. short vowels in German. Your teacher played audio from the course book (Aufgabe 5) and asked you to mark whether the vowel sound was long (stretched) or short (clipped).

Long A — stretched "ah"

Like the "a" in "father". Example: Name (nah-meh), Hafen (hah-fen = harbour). Hold the sound longer than in English.

Long E — clear "ay"

Like "ay" in "say". Example: lesen (lay-zen = to read), Lehrer (lay-rer = teacher). At the end of words, e often sounds like a soft "uh".

Long O — round lips "oh"

Your lips must be rounded in a circle! Example: wohnen (voh-nen = to live), Montag (mohn-tahk). Think of the "Om" sound in meditation — that is the correct mouth position!

Long U — deep "oo"

Like "oo" in "food". Example: Fußball (foos-bal), Beruf (be-roof = profession). Not the short clipped sound — really stretch it!

💡 Teacher's Tip: In your course book exercises, use a special marking system. Draw an underline (_) under a vowel to mark it as long, and a dot (·) to mark it as short. This is called the Unterstrich (underscore) method. Practise this with the audio exercises!

✍️ Write For / Examples

Here are realistic everyday sentences using today's grammar. Each example shows the article rule in action. Study the pattern — German → English translation → explanation.

1 das Wochenende — the weekend

"Haben Sie ein gutes Wochenende!" = Have a good weekend!
🔍 Wochenende ends in -ende and is neuter → das. Your teacher said this at the end of class!

2 die Freundschaft — friendship

"Die Freundschaft ist wichtig." = Friendship is important.
🔍 Ends in -schaft → always die (feminine). Freund = friend + schaft = the state of being friends.

3 das Essen — food / eating

"Das Essen ist gut." = The food is good.
🔍 essen is a verb (to eat). When capitalised as a noun → always das.

4 die Qualität — quality

"Die Qualität ist sehr gut." = The quality is very good.
🔍 Ends in -tät → always die (feminine). Compare to English "quality."

5 der Montag — Monday

"Am Montag haben wir Deutsch." = On Monday we have German.
🔍 All day names are masculine → der. Note: am = on the (for days).

6 der Schmetterling — butterfly

"Der Schmetterling ist schön." = The butterfly is beautiful.
🔍 Ends in -ling → masculine → der. A fun word to practise pronunciation!

7 die Geschichte — history / story

"Die Geschichte ist interessant." = The history/story is interesting.
🔍 Context decides meaning: Geschichte can mean both "history" and "story" — just like in English context makes it clear!

8 das Eigentum — property

"Das Eigentum gehört mir." = The property belongs to me.
🔍 Ends in -tum → usually das (neuter). Remember: eigen means "own."

MORE EXAMPLES

✍️ Examples: Numbers in Sentences

These are the kinds of maths sentences your class practised aloud. Read them, say them out loud, and try to answer before looking!

German Maths Sentence	English Meaning	Answer in German
Zwei plus drei ist…?	Two plus three is…?	fünf (5)
Zehn minus vier ist…?	Ten minus four is…?	sechs (6)
Drei mal drei ist…?	Three times three is…?	neun (9)
Elf plus eins ist…?	Eleven plus one is…?	zwölf (12)
Sieben plus vier ist…?	Seven plus four is…?	elf (11)

🎮 Class Game Recap: Your teacher ran a number drop game (90 seconds!) where numbers appeared on screen and students had to call out the German word. Then a maths game: addition first, then subtraction, then multiplication. The key rule — answer only in German, no English numbers!

MORE EXAMPLES

✍️ Examples: Vowel Length in Words

From the course book audio exercise (Aufgabe 5), your teacher identified these words. Use the marking system: underline = long, dot = short.

🔵 Long Vowel Words

Name — long "a" (nah-meh)
Hafen — long "a" (harbour)
wohnen — long "o" (to live)
Montag — long "o" (Monday)
Foto — long "o" (photo — say "foh-toh", NOT "fot-oh"!)
Fußball — long "u" (football)
Beruf — long "u" (profession)

🔴 Short Vowel Words

lernen — short "e" (to learn) sprechen — short "e" (to speak) singen — short "i" (to sing)
kommen — short "o" (to come)
Garten — short "a" (garden)
Hallo — short "a" (hello — not haa-loh!)
danke — short "a" (thank you)

💡 Your teacher's tip: English also has long and short vowels — you just never studied them formally! German simply makes the rules more visible. Listen carefully to the audio tracks in your course book and mark as you listen.

MORE EXAMPLES

✍️ Examples: Dictation Words from Class

Your teacher dictated 10 words letter by letter, and students wrote them down. Here are the words with pronunciation and article notes. Sayantani got 10 out of 10! 🎉

German Word	Article	English Meaning	Note
Wort	das	word	Pronounced VORT
Warara / (Wörter)	das/die	words (plural)	Dictation word — check spelling
Gassche / (Gasse)	die	alley / lane	Dictation exercise word
Rogara	—	Dictation practice	Focus on spelling accuracy
Schola / Schule	die	school	Ends in -e, feminine
Rebaed / Arbeit	die	work	Ends in -eit → die
Ansemmer / (Zimmer)	das	room	Pronounced TSIM-mer
Jahr	das	year	Pronounced YAHR
Tächan / Töchter	die	daughters	Contains Umlaut Ö

ⓘ 📝 About Umlauts: An umlaut is the two dots (¨) above a vowel: ä, ö, ü. If you cannot type them, write ae, oe, ue instead. For example: Qualität → Qualitaet. Your teacher confirmed this is an acceptable substitute when typing.

CHAPTER 4 OF 4

📝 Practice Exercises

Part A: Fill in the Article

Write the correct article — der, die, or das — in each gap. Use the grammar rules you learnt today!

Exercise 1 — Fill in the blank

1. _____ Montag (Monday)
2. _____ Freundschaft (friendship)
3. _____ Eigentum (property)
4. _____ Diskussion (discussion)
5. _____ Schmetterling (butterfly)
6. _____ Essen (eating/food)
7. _____ Qualität (quality)
8. _____ Volkswagen
9. _____ Winter (winter)
10. _____ Geschwindigkeit (speed)
11. _____ Gold (gold)
12. _____ Kästchen (little box)

✅ Answer Key

1. der Montag — day name → masculine
2. die Freundschaft — ends in -schaft → feminine
3. das Eigentum — ends in -tum → neuter
4. die Diskussion — ends in -ion → feminine
5. der Schmetterling — ends in -ling → masculine
6. das Essen — verb used as noun → neuter
7. die Qualität — ends in -tät → feminine
8. der Volkswagen — car brand → masculine
9. der Winter — season → masculine
10. die Geschwindigkeit — ends in -keit → feminine
11. das Gold — metal → neuter
12. das Kästchen — ends in -chen → neuter

PRACTICE

📝 Practice Exercises

Part B: Matching — German to English

Draw a line (or write the letter) to match each German word with its correct English meaning. This was the style of game your class played at the end of the lesson!

German Words

1. die Freiheit
2. der Beruf
3. das Wochenende
4. der Herbst
5. die Welt
6. der Nachbar
7. das Foto
8. die Familie
9. der Freund
10. das Zimmer

English Meanings

1. room
2. autumn
3. weekend
4. friend
5. neighbour
6. world
7. freedom
8. family
9. profession / job
10. photo

Answers: 1-g, 2-i, 3-c, 4-b, 5-f, 6-e, 7-j, 8-h, 9-d, 10-a

PRACTICE

📝 Practice Exercises

Part C: Maths in German + Translation

Write out the full German sentence for each maths problem, then translate it into English. Speak the answer aloud — just like in class!

01

4 + 7 = ?

Write: Vier plus sieben ist _____. — Answer: elf (eleven)

02

12 − 3 = ?

Write: Zwölf minus drei ist _____. — Answer: neun (nine)

03

3 × 4 = ?

Write: Drei mal vier ist _____. — Answer: zwölf (twelve)

04

10 + 1 = ?

Write: Zehn plus eins ist _____. — Answer: elf (eleven)

05

2 × 7 = ?

Write: Zwei mal sieben ist _____. — Answer: vierzehn (fourteen)

06

11 − 4 = ?

Write: Elf minus vier ist _____. — Answer: sieben (seven)

PRACTICE

📝 Practice Exercises

Part D: Spot the Gender Rule

For each word below, identify the gender rule that applies and write the correct article. Challenge yourself — try without looking at your notes first!

German Noun	Correct Article	Rule Applied	English Meaning
Frühling	der	Ends in -ling	spring
Information	die	Ends in -ion	information
Mädchen	das	Ends in -chen	girl
Lesen	das	Verb used as noun	reading
Universität	die	Ends in -tät	university
Januar	der	Month name	January
Silber	das	Metal / material	silver
Studentschaft	die	Ends in -schaft	student body
Sommer	der	Season name	summer
Audi	der	Car brand	Audi (car)
Spielen	das	Verb used as noun	playing
Freiheit	die	Ends in -heit	freedom

PRACTICE

📝 Practice Exercises

Part E: Mark the Vowel Length

For each word, decide if the underlined vowel is long (L) or short (S). Use a
